

FREE

Article publishing
Content for Reprint
Get all content you need

Home | Submit | Search | RSS

Search:

Go

Category: Top » Family » Parenting » Infants-and-toddlers »

Is It Okay to Let My Baby Watch TV?

Author: fairybaby | Total views: 2492 Comments: 0
Word Count: 708 Date: Mon, 2 Jun 2008 2:53 AM

ASK A LAWYER ONLINESM

just answer.[®]
THE #1 EXPERT ANSWERS SITE

There are two schools of thought on this. One says that babies under two years of age should not be allowed to watch any TV; the other says that limited amounts of high-quality educational TV accompanied by adult interaction are fine - and may even be beneficial. When DVDs are used correctly, the repetition and familiarity they provide can actually aid learning.

However, no TV at all is better than unsupervised watching. No TV at all is also better than any watching of entertainment-based programs - and that includes shows such as cartoons, which may be designed for kids, but are really not suitable for babies.

What can happen to babies who watch the wrong sort of TV, or watch TV unsupervised?

JustAnswer.com/Law

Ads by Google

Child experts in the US have noted a correlation between high TV exposure in babies and toddlers, and the incidence of attention-deficit hyperactivity disorder. It's possible that watching TV's rapidly shifting images could have a negative impact on brain development in the very young (high-quality educational programs should not have rapidly shifting images though).

Parents should note that even DVDs marketed as educational may be harmful to babies; if they are watched without supervision, that harm is multiplied. In August 2007 Dr Dimitri Christakis and Frederick Zimmerman of the University of Washington published a report on the effects of popular programs such as Baby Einstein and Brainy Baby. They found that for every hour per day spent watching the DVDs, babies learnt six to eight fewer new vocabulary words than babies who had never watched TV. Many of the programs were devoid of language content. But even when it came to shows designed to enhance language acquisition, Christakis says, "Videos of native speakers of languages fail to teach children as well as live speakers do." That's why it's important for an adult to speak or sing along to the DVD being shown.

In October 2007 the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) - which advises that the under-two's not be allowed to watch any TV - published a report on the effects of TV exposure in early childhood. Consistent exposure to two or more hours of TV per day, the academy found, was correlated with a greater incidence of sleep and behavioral problems, as well as less developed social skills. Notes the AAP, "Under age two, talking, singing, reading, listening to music or playing are far more important to a child's development than any TV show."

Shouldn't I follow the advice of the American Academy of Pediatrics to the letter?

Yes - if that's the decision you're most comfortable with. It's worth noting, though, that the type of exposure the academy looked at in its study was unsupervised exposure to entertainment-based programs. We, like the academy, would advise you to spare your baby this sort of TV exposure for at least the first two years.

Many parents and teachers find, however, that high-quality educational TV programs complement interactions with their babies and facilitate learning. Robert Titzer's Your Baby Can Read! and Rachel de Azevedo Coleman's Baby Signing Time! are good examples. The Titzer DVDs show parents the best way to read, repeat and talk about words; parents can also read along with the narrator and talk to their baby about the pictures onscreen. For parents teaching sign language to their baby, Coleman clearly demonstrates how to model signs - a big help and confidence boost to parents learning sign language along with their baby. The songs that accompany the lessons are fun and catchy, with babies' enjoyment of the DVDs increasing as they get to know the music.

How can I be sure I'm getting the balance right?

Interacting with your baby while watching is key. Besides that, you should ensure your baby watches no more than one hour of TV per day. To start off with, you might like to keep it to 15 minutes at a time - your baby will probably find it hard to pay attention for any longer. You can increase the duration later, when your baby starts to recognize and understand the program - and especially, when interactions become a two-way affair.

About the Author

Madeleine is the Managing Editor @ Brillbaby

To learn more on smart babies or how to teach your baby, visit BrillBaby.

ASK A LAWYER ONLINESM

just answer.[®]

THE #1 EXPERT ANSWERS SITE

JustAnswer.com/Law

Ads by Google

Rate, comment or bookmark this article

 Seed Newsvine

Rating: Not yet rated --Choose--

Bookmark this article in your preferred program

Comments

No comments posted.

Add Comment

Your Name:

Your Email:

Comment

Enter the code shown

HTML code

Popular Articles in this category

1: Indian Baby Names - Blending The Modern, Traditional And Religious

As you can expect from one of the most populated (over 1billion) countries in the world and the one with fastest growing population, there are literally thousands of Indian baby names to choose from. ..

2: Glenn Doman: Pioneer of Baby Flash Cards

Want to learn more about Glenn Doman and his methods? Read the history of Glenn Doman and how the institutes for the Achievement of Human Potential lead to the discovery of early learning.

3: The Top Three Benefits of Learning a Second Language Early in Life

The savvy parents and teachers of today realize our economy is requiring a more global approach. They wish to prepare their children with the tools necessary to travel successfully in a society rich with diversity. Learn about the many benefits derived from introducing a second language to young children.

4: Psychosocial Development in Toddlers

Psychosocial development in toddlers explains eight stages through which a healthily developing human should pass from infancy to late adulthood.

5: Say Good Night to Toddler Bed-Time Battles

Are you fed up with your toddler's delaying tactics at bedtime? Wanting to avoid bedtime battles? Try these top toddler tactics to create sweet dreams for you and your child.

This article is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-No Derivative Works 3.0 License.

Site Info
content4reprint.com
Rank: 18,132
Links in: 620
Powered by  TOP-100

Best sites

Vote For Content4Reprint - Free article library at Top Article Directory List

Main menu

- o Home
- o Login
- o Register
- o Submit Article
- o Most Popular Articles
- o Author list
- o Latest Articles
- o RSS Feeds list
- o Search
- o Contact Us

Welcome Guest

Bookmark this page

Subscribe to this Feed

Resources

- o Human Spanish translations details
- o Partners
- o Privacy Policy for Content4Reprint.co
- o Terms of Service

Rank:  3
CIP: 47400
GBL: 22
YIP: 744777
YBL: 250011
MIP: 91
ALR: 16078
ABL: 620
TUV: 4868
TPV: 4908
YUV: 14290
YPV: 14370
AUV: 1537244
APV: 15919854
172 users online

Categories

- o  Accounting
- o  Arts
- o  Beauty
- o  Business
- o  Career
- o  Cars and Trucks
- o  Computer
- o  Computers
- o  Culture and Society
- o  Environment
- o  Family
- o  Finance
- o  Fitness
- o  Food and Drink
- o  Food and Drinks
- o  Free Tools and Resources
- o  Games
- o  Health
- o  Hobbies
- o  Home
- o  Humor
- o  Inspirational
- o  Internet
- o  Internet Marketing
- o  Legal

